IRISES

This list includes the intermediate, early and late bearded flag Irises. Every collection should have some of each of the three seasons to prolong the blooming season. Every variety listed is distinct and fine. The number before the name denotes the rating, 100 being perfect; S. means standards of upper petals; F. means falls or lower petals. Each and dozen lots prepaid; 100 lots F.O.B.; 25 at the 100 rate.

CULTURE
Any good rich soil will do, if not, work in some bone dust around each plant, about a hand full. Use no fresh manures of any kind. A light application of lime or wood ashes is beneficial, if not applied too near the plant.

PLANTING
We have had good results in transplanting irises any time in the growing season, except from about the middle of May to July 1st which is their blooming season with us. Set the plants so the rhizomes are about level with the ground.

PEONIES
By all means plant a few peonies. They are one of the hardiest and finest flowers grown. By planting the early, mid-season and late varieties you may have blooms for a month.

PLANTING
Plant in any good rich soil that is well drained; fertilize the same as for Iris. In setting the plant have the eyes or buds come about level with the ground, as deep planting does not produce many blooms. September until the ground freezes is the best time to plant.
